“ My emotions are running high, but what I will say is she had a heart of gold. When I was a child she was my protector, she protected me from my parents when they wanted to come down harsh on me and protected me from others as well. My regret is not spending more time with her and not making it more of a priority to visit her when I was in the area where she lived. I will always cherish the last time I visited with her. She and Carmen met us at a restaurant in Alabama a little over a year ago, this is the last time I had an in-person visit with her and I will always remember it and cherish it.
